

In 2006 with initiative of Hel Marine Station the educational/promotional campaign about the problems of marine mammals climaxed in the unveiling of a bronze harbour porpoise sculpture on a pedestal of postglacial boulders, funded by the authorities of Gdynia.

The sculpture, displayed in a very elegant, representative part of the city arouses much interest and is much liked by its viewers. This spot is massively visited and photographed by tourists, thus engraining the image of the only Baltic cetacean species in people's memory.

The same location was selected for the 2006 exhibition commemorating the ASCOBANS International Day of the Baltic Harbour porpoise, during which publicity materials produced by ourselves as well as leaflets and posters provided by the Agreement Secretariat were distributed.
